

Hart graduated with my masters in Marine Biology. During and after college, he spent 6 years salmon fishing and crabbing out of Eureka California for what at that time was Eureka Fisheries. He spent one year fishing herring and seining pink salmon in prince William sound. Then he spent a brief two years with NMFS as an observer/trainer and experienced life aboard a longline cod vessel out of Dutch Harbor. Hart was hired on at Peter Pan Seafoods by Hat Huynh in 1994 as the QA manager for the King Cove facility and was quickly transferred to a floating processor where he was QA manager (for a crew of 2). He was later moved to King Cove where he became the QA manager of both Fresh Frozen and the Cannery. When Hat finally decided to retire (13 years ago), Hart was given the job as QA Director. Hart is currently the Chair on the ASMI technical committee, and he is also a member of too many committees to list.
