

As the co-owner and principal at NW Food Solutions, Teri Danielson works closely with food and beverage industry clients to design, develop and implement measurable improvements to plant operations and food safety programs.

Teri has spent her career in both technical services and operations management working for Starbucks Coffee Company, Tazo Tea Company, and Bridgeport Brewing Company. She started her career at a small fruit processing company in the Willamette Valley working with growers, manufacturing employees, co-manufacturers and customers to deliver high quality fruit products. Her experiences have reinforced the importance of engaging people across the supply chain when working to deliver safe, great tasting food using effective processing techniques.
