

1-on-1 Meetings Between New Graduate Students and Potential Faculty Advisors

Chemistry Department Guidelines

Adopted September 23, 2013

Dear First Year Graduate Students:

An important aspect of graduate school is selecting your advisor. In order to ensure that students are properly matched with the optimum mentor, we request that students meet with at least 4 faculty members individually (2 faculty for nuclear students) prior to formally selecting an advisor. Documentation of this meeting can be provided by the faculty members signing this sheet after the meeting. This form should be returned to Grad Recruiting Coordinator (Sarah Burton) after completion.

You are expected to attend the faculty seminar series (Monday-Wednesday-Friday, noon-1 pm, weeks 2-4) in order to further explore your research opportunities. Some faculty members maintain regular group meetings and a listing of the group meeting schedules for those faculty members can be found at <http://chem.science.oregonstate.edu/content/group-meeting-schedule>. Additionally, some faculty members may be happy to discuss the possibility of a rotation in their lab prior to making a final decision.
